

ACCESS SERVICES LIBRARIAN POSITION—PALM BEACH ATLANTIC UNIVERSITY, WEST PALM BEACH, FL

The Warren Library announces the search for a well-qualified Access Services librarian to fill an open position within its team of librarians. The Access Services Librarian manages the services of the library's primary access point and leads the UX Team in a collaborative effort to optimize the user experience across the entire spectrum of library services. This includes recruiting and supervising all staff assigned to the main service desk. This position will also participate in scheduled reference and instructional services including evening and weekend rotation. This is a faculty position with support for promotion and opportunities for broader University service.

This position requires a graduate degree in library science from an ALA-accredited institution. Additional experience in an academic library, especially in the area of access services is essential. Training and/or experience with techniques of UX design is highly desired. Proficiency in the general research skills required in academically rigorous and technologically sophisticated libraries is expected. The successful candidate must have the oral, written, and interpersonal skills required to be effective in a demanding team-based organization. Qualified candidates must also demonstrate strong Christian commitment as evidenced by local church involvement and the ability to integrate faith with day-to-day job performance. An additional advanced degree within a discipline of the university's academic program is desired.

The Warren Library is a unique melding of contemporary and historic architecture with the inviting feel of South Florida ambience. From the intellectual stimulation of its classic reading room to its technologically rich learning commons to the casual relaxed atmosphere of its café, the Warren Library offers the very best in an academic learning environment. All this on a campus located on the Intracoastal Waterway within easy walking distance of the beach.

Applications for faculty/academic administration positions must include:

- A letter of application
- Your resume or curriculum vitae
- Unofficial copies of all transcripts
- Three letters of professional reference or a list of three professional references
- Your statement of your teaching philosophy
- Your statement indicating how you have previously or intend to intentionally integrate a Christian theistic worldview in the teaching/learning process
- Completed Faculty/Administrative Questionnaire (Go to <http://www.pba.edu/faculty-administration-positions> for the link to questionnaire in the upper right corner)

Only applications containing all seven documents will be forwarded to the appropriate search committee for review.

Applications may be submitted via e-mail, fax or correspondence.
