Project Assistant / California Audiovisual Preservation Project (CAVPP) / Berkeley, CA / Position Announcement:California Audiovisual Preservation Project Assistant (position open until filled),Project description:In partnership with 108 libraries, archives and museums (and growing), the California Preservation Program provides digitization, preservation, and access services for historic California audiovisual recordings. The California Light and Sound collection of recordings provides “glimpses and whispers” of our state’s rich audiovisual heritage—history as it happened—to be mined and discovered.The California Audiovisual Preservation Project (CAVPP) gathers best archival practices for moving image and sound preservation and establishes low-cost, practical, standards to help organizations digitize and manage their audiovisual collections. Access is provided by the Internet Archive for teaching, research and study. In addition, records are shared via Calisphere, WorldCat, the Digital Public Library of America, and the Home Movie Registry. Storage of files for long-term preservation is provided by the California Audiovisual Preservation Project. The Project is grant-funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities and California State Library, administered by the Pacific Library Partnership, San Mateo, CA, and hosted by the Library Preservation Department, UC Berkeley. UC Berkeley Library is the work location for this position. Position description: The project assistant will undertake the following activities: Perform quality assurance and control of new digital preservation files and metadata records. Analyze needs and sort collection materials for preservation treatment. Assist in the long-term management and preservation of the digital preservation files and metadata records and document procedures. Communicate with vendors and partner archives. Ingest existing digital objects and associated metadata to the California Light and Sound repository. Normalize and process digital objects and metadata as needed. Upload access files to the Internet Archive. Upload, map and aggregate metadata. Sync with Worldcat and other catalogs. Write preservation copies of objects and metadata to LTO tape to be stored offline. Assist with development of preservation outreach workshops. Required Capabilities and Experience: Experience with moving image and sound formats, handling, and preservation. Experience with quality assurance and control procedures for archival materials. Working knowledge of library and archives preservation principles, including digitization and metadata standards for long-term preservation and access. Familiarity with standards such as PBCore, Dublin Core, Encoded Archival Description, and various thesauri for moving image and sound cataloging. Ability to work creatively, collaboratively, and effectively both as a team member and independently. Writing skills to document procedures. Ability to lift up to 50 pounds. Basic competence with office applications in Microsoft and Mac environments. Preferred Capabilities and Experience: Interest in California history. Experience and facility with Adobe Premiere Pro and Wavelab Elements (for quality control purposes), and Islandora (CAVPP's content management system). Contract through September 2017 at a rate of $18-22/hour, depending on skills and experience; 32-40 hrs/week. Subsequent contracts dependent upon available funding. This position begins immediately. If interested, please send resume and cover letter to Pamela Vadakan, Manager, CAVPP, pamelaje@berkeley.edu, 510.642.4665.

Archival Practices / Smithsonian Institute-National Museum of Natural History / Suitland, MD / Internship in Archival Practices-Joint Internship with Recovering Voices, National Museum of Natural History, Smithsonian Institution and the National Anthropological Archives, National Museum of Natural History, Smithsonian Institution. Fall 2016, Mentors: Gabriela Pérez Báez, Curator of Linguistics and Director of Recovering Voices, National Museum of Natural History, Smithsonian, Caitlin Haynes, Reference Archivist, National Anthropological Archives, National Museum of Natural History, Smithsonian. Description: This internship is intended to immerse a graduate student in Museum Studies, Anthropology, Linguistics or similar, and in archival practices in the context of language endangerment. The internship has two components. The first is to work with Curator of Linguistics Gabriela Pérez Báez to prepare digital-born sound files of endangered Zapotec languages from Mexico collected in the field. This entails interacting with the National Anthropological Archives to understand and implement metadata standards for archiving digital born data. The second component is to work with Reference Archivist Caitlin Haynes on the development of Subject Guides for archival collections that are of critical importance to the Recovering Voices Initiative. Recovering Voices is the Smithsonian NMNH's response to the global crisis in cultural knowledge loss. Recovering Voices conducts and enables research on languages and knowledge systems to understand the loss of cultural diversity and to develop effective responses to reverse it. Access to collections is central to the recovery and generation of knowledge in the process. Global impact is achieved through partnerships with communities and academic institutions. The research is complemented by outreach that capitalizes on the Smithsonian's convening power to transform public understanding of the value of language and knowledge diversity. The intern will be immersed in Recovering Voices practices. The National Anthropological Archives and Human Studies Film Archives. In the department of Anthropology, Collections and Archives Program, collect and preserve historical and contemporary anthropological materials that document the world's cultures and the history of anthropology. Their collections represent the four fields of anthropology – ethnology, linguistics, archaeology, and physical anthropology – and include fieldnotes, journals, manuscripts, correspondence, photographs, maps, sound recordings, film and video created by Smithsonian anthropologists and other preeminent scholars. Qualifications: Applicants should be current students or recent graduates from an archives, library science, museum studies, anthropology, or linguistics program. A cumulative GPA of 3.0, or higher is generally expected of graduate student interns. Proficiency in MS Word and Excel is also required. Preference is given to applicants with strong research, writing, organizational, and communication skills. This position also requires attention to detail and professionalism. When: Semester, Fall 2016, Location: The National Anthropological Archives is located in the Smithsonian's Museum Support Center in Suitland, MD. <http://www.nmnh.si.edu/naa/>. The center is a 15-minute walk from the Suitland Metro Station on the Green Line and is also accessible via free shuttle from the National Mall. Free parking is also available. The Recovering Voices office is located in the National Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C. Interns are expected to split their time between both locations. To Apply: Interested students should provide a resume and a brief cover letter explaining their qualifications, reason for interest in the internship, and names of two references. Please assemble all materials into a single document and include your last name in the file name. Send the document as an attachment via email to Gabriela Pérez Báez, atperezbaez@si.edu
