Teaching and Learning Librarians Oxford College Library Emory University/ Review begins 10/31/
Located 36 miles east of Atlanta on Emory's original campus in Oxford Georgia, Oxford College of Emory University invites candidates to apply for two Teaching and Learning Librarian positions. We seek enthusiastic individuals with proven teaching and technology skills to work with the library's instruction program to develop and deliver innovative, quality services for the Oxford College Library (<http://oxford.library.emory.edu/>). We are expanding the number of teaching librarians to support the new college curriculum which includes Discovery Seminars with information literacy as a key outcome. In addition to the Discovery Seminars, the librarians will partner with faculty to integrate information literacy into courses across the disciplines. Responsibilities: The successful candidates for these positions will develop innovative instruction and learning opportunities, modules, and programs to assist first- and second-year students in building important information literacy abilities. Librarians play an integral role in support of the College's inquiry-driven curriculum in collaboration with other teaching librarians and faculty. Candidates should be comfortable with current and evolving information technologies, including the development and implementation of flipped classroom techniques and tools. Librarians will, based on interest and expertise, support other library initiatives, such as digital projects, collection development, outreach, and assessment. Librarians are active members of internal library teams, College and University groups, and have the opportunity to participate in professional organizations. Qualifications: Required: a graduate degree in librarianship from an ALA-accredited institution; demonstrated effective, discipline-specific teaching experience; knowledge and experience in meeting the research needs of students and faculty in a variety of subject areas; self-motivation; flexibility; strong problem-solving, written, and oral communication skills; initiative and the ability to conceive and carry out projects on a deadline, including managing multiple responsibilities and effectively responding to the needs of a campus community that makes heavy demands on library services; ability to work in a collaborative team environment. Salary and Benefits: Salary based on qualifications and experience. These are non-tenure track faculty-equivalent librarian positions that follow a rank and promotion system based on performance, experience, expertise, and contributions. The library provides generous support for professional development and activities. Emory University offers a comprehensive benefits package, including tuition benefits. Several retirement plan options are available, including TIAA/CREF. Application Procedures:
Please apply for these positions via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/55493> and include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of three references. Review of applications will begin on October 31, 2018; and, these positions will remain open until filled. One of Emory University's four schools partnering in undergraduate education, Oxford College provides 950 first- and second-year students of high academic profile an intensive liberal-arts program for the first two years of their Emory bachelor's degree. We are interested in candidates with a commitment to working with a remarkably diverse student body in an inclusive learning community. Executive Director / Onondaga County Public Library / Syracuse, NY / Apply by 12/14 / EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR,Onondaga County Public Library (Syracuse, NY):The Onondaga County Public Library (OCPL) Board of Trustees seeks experienced candidates who possess a proven record of accomplishments in building and maintaining community partnerships, working with local governments including the legislative and executive branches, managing budgets, and leading change. A successful candidate must understand trends in library services and technology, as well as the impact a public library can have as an anchor institution in its community. OCPL and the Position: Reporting to an 11 member county-appointed Board of Trustees, the Executive Director is responsible for overseeing the operations of the Onondaga County Public Library, an independently chartered education corporation. OCPL includes a Central Library, funded by Onondaga County to serve all residents of the County and eight branches and two community center service outlets located within and funded by the City of Syracuse. In addition, OCPL is a New York State designated federated public library system which receives annual funding from the State to provide library system services not only to OCPL, but also to the 19 independent public and association libraries that are members of the system. OCPL serves a diverse countywide population of approximately 466,000, with 143,000 of those residents living in the city of Syracuse. A total renovation of the Central Library was completed in 2016, which increased the library's visibility, services, and usage. All eight of the city branches are also heavily used, as they serve the needs of their neighborhoods. The Onondaga County Public Library has a staff of 156 FTE and a 2017 operating budget of $14,693,219 in a Civil Service and union environment. Total countywide circulation of library materials was 4,829,180 in 2017, including 1,091,420 within the Central Library and city branches. OCPL's friends' group (Friends of the Central Library) hosts the Rosamond Gifford Lecture Series of notable authors each year, which raises funds for the Central Library. Additionally, the library continually seeks grants every year from a broad range of funding sources. The library has maintained an excellent working relationship with city, county, and state officials, member libraries, Syracuse University's School of Information Studies, and community organizations such as the local PBS station WCNY, and the Literacy Coalition of Onondaga County. The Executive Director is expected to continuously build and maintain collaborative partnerships with all stakeholders and to fulfill OCPL's commitment to serving multi-cultural communities.

Qualifications Required: Master's Degree in Library Science, Information Studies or other graduate library degree from a library science program accredited by the American Library Association. Eligibility for a New York State Public Librarian's Certificate at time of application for appointment; possession of the Certificate required at time of appointment. Eight or more years of satisfactory professional library experience in libraries or library systems of recognized standing, which must include at least three years of progressively responsible experience in a senior administrative capacity. A record of innovation and risk-taking, and a willingness to take responsibility and learn from successes and failures. Experience with financial planning, budgeting, and reporting for a library or library system. Strong organizational, interpersonal, problem-solving, and project management skills. Experience with security issues and solutions, and balancing those with a need for a welcoming environment. Experience in strategic planning and implementation. Commitment to the ALA Code of Ethics.

Qualifications Preferred: Prior experience as a director of a library or library system. Experience with facility renovations. Experience working in libraries which support diverse communities, including diversity in culture, language, and ethnic origins.

Compensation: The salary range for this position begins at $101,853 and is subject to increase based upon County Executive and Legislative approval. Competitive benefits include health and dental insurance, NY State Retirement, long term disability insurance, and the opportunity to participate in a deferred compensation plan.

The Community: Among the residents of the region are members of the Onondaga Nation, whose ancestral home includes Onondaga County. In terms of ethnic diversity, the county's population is 23% ethnically diverse and over 10% speak a language at home other than English. While Syracuse has been in the news for the poverty in some of its neighborhoods, as it was when the Erie Canal was being built, entrepreneurship and innovation are evident in the county and city, with a going number of new businesses taking hold. The area around the Central Library (zip code 13202) is one of the faster growing areas in the county, with many new apartments and condominiums being built and occupied. The Central Library's neighborhood includes Armory Square, which contains restaurants, entertainment venues, the Museum of Science and Technology, the OnCenter convention/performing arts/sports complex and the Redhouse Arts Center. Syracuse is home to several world-class educational and cultural institutions, including LeMoyne College, Syracuse University, and the Everson Museum. There are a variety of college and professional sports, music and ethnic festivals, state and local parks, and other activities that residents enjoy year-round. Syracuse has the cultural amenities of a large urban area, including a thriving downtown. Work commutes are minimal, housing costs are reasonable, and schools, universities, and cultural attractions rival some of the nation's best. Syracuse is centrally located in New York State. Its location makes it a 4-6 hour drive to New York City, Boston, Philadelphia, Montreal, and Toronto. The Finger Lakes Region is less than one hour away. The Thousand Islands, Adirondack Mountains, and Niagara Falls are, at most, a few hours away. The successful candidate will demonstrate support for diversity, equity, accessibility, and inclusiveness, will participate in maintaining a respectful, positive work environment and will possess effective communication skills and cross-cultural abilities. OCPL is committed to promoting an environment that models and celebrates principles of diversity and inclusivity and especially welcomes applications from individuals who represent the populations that we serve. To Apply: Send cover letter, resume, and three professional references as Word or PDF attachments via email to board@onlib.org on or before closing date - Friday, December 14, 2018. OCPL is an AA/EOE Employer. Onondaga County Public Library, 447 S. Salina St., Syracuse, NY 13202. www.onlib.org
