Community Engagement Librarian/ UCLA/ Apply by 6/18/ Department: National Network of Libraries of Medicine, Pacific Southwest Region, Louise M. Darling Biomedical Library Rank and Salary: Assistant Librarian – Librarian ($55,014 –$109,983) Position Availability: Immediately Application deadline for first consideration: June 18, 2020 The UCLA Library seeks a collaborative, motivated, and knowledgeable Community Engagement Librarian to support the National Network of Libraries of Medicine (NNLM) All of Us National Program in the Pacific Southwest Region (PSR). The NNLM is funded through a cooperative agreement (grant) with the National Library of Medicine (NLM). The Regional Medical Library (RML) functions administratively as a division of the UCLA Library. The mission of the NNLM is to advance the progress of medicine and improve the public health, by providing equal access to biomedical information to all U.S. health professionals and by improving the public's access to health information. The Pacific Southwest Region of the NNLM includes Arizona, California, Hawaii, Nevada, and U.S. Territories in the Pacific. The RML facilitates resource sharing and cooperative projects among a network of nearly 600 libraries in this region, including academic medical libraries, hospital and healthcare organization libraries, and a growing number of public libraries with consumer health collections. The NNLM staff provides outreach programs including exhibits at conferences, classes in health information access, referrals to network libraries, and demonstrations of NLM databases and resources, including PubMed/MEDLINE, MedlinePlus, and ClinicalTrials.gov. Position Duration: through April 30, 2021 with a possibility of extension up to a total of 2 years Position Duties: Reporting to the Associate Director, the Community Engagement Librarian coordinates all aspects of the NNLM All of Us National Program in the Pacific Southwest Region, consisting of AZ, CA, HI, NV, and US Territories in the Pacific. The Community Engagement Coordinator will work with regional public libraries, community-based organizations and others to develop health information programs and activities based on community health needs and to create awareness, engagement, and retention of participants in the NIH All of Us Research Program (AoURP) (<https://joinallofus.org>). This position will work in collaboration with the NNLM Community Engagement Network (<https://nnlm.gov/all-of-us>) All of Us program partners, and regional partners to develop, pilot, model, and evaluate All of Us community engagement activities, emphasizing outreach to underrepresented populations typically not included in biomedical research. The Community Engagement

Librarian is one member of a team of four outreach librarians. Specific duties and responsibilities include: Maintains advanced knowledge of National Library of Medicine (NLM) and All of Us resources relevant to public libraries and community partners Builds and maintains connections with a network of diverse partners that represent identified communities and identifies health information gaps Provides health information outreach and creates innovative health information programs with an emphasis on National Library of Medicine and National Institutes of Health information resources Participates in national program coordination to develop effective, innovative, replicable approaches to meet the objectives of the AoURP and health information needs of public libraries and surrounding communities Develops evaluation and progress reports on activities, programs, and services related to AoURP, in close collaboration with the Office of Education and Training, All of Us Training and Coordinating Center, National Evaluation Office, and other NNLM regions Contributes through webinars, presentations at professional association meetings, and professional service (e.g., serving on professional panels) surrounding the NNLM All of Us national program Exhibits at national, regional and local conferences and meetings reaching public libraries and community partners Provides funding consultation, evaluates funding applications, and manages multiple subawards to support public libraries and community organizations

Description of Unit The National Network of Libraries of Medicine is funded through a five-year (2016-2021) cooperative agreement (grant) with the National Library of Medicine. The Regional Medical Library (RML) functions administratively as a division of the Biomedical Library. The mission of the NNLM is to advance the progress of medicine and improve the public health, by ensuring that health professionals, researchers, the public health workforce, patients, families and the public have access to quality health information. The Pacific Southwest Region of the NNLM includes Arizona, California, Hawaii, Nevada, and U.S. Territories in the Pacific. The RML facilitates resource sharing and cooperative projects among a network of nearly 600 libraries in this region, including academic medical libraries, hospital and healthcare organization libraries, and a growing number of public libraries with consumer health collections. Since 2017, NLM has engaged in a pilot program with the National Institutes of Health All of Us Research Program to stimulate and facilitate community engagement and participant support through the NNLM. Archives Internship (Paid) / Freer Gallery of Art and Arthur M. Sackler Gallery / Washington DC/ The Freer Gallery of Art and Arthur M. Sackler Gallery, the Smithsonian's National Museum of Asian Art, are located on the National Mall in Washington, DC. Committed to preserving, exhibiting, and interpreting exemplary works of art, the Freer and Sackler house exceptional collections of Asian art, with more than 42,000 objects dating from the Neolithic period to today. Renowned and iconic objects originate from China, Japan, Korea, South and Southeast Asia, the ancient Near East, and the Islamic world. The Freer Gallery also holds a significant group of American works of art largely dating to the late nineteenth century. It boasts the world's largest collection of diverse works by James McNeill Whistler, including the famed Peacock Room.

THE PERSON SELECTED FOR THIS EIGHT-MONTH PAID INTERNSHIP WILL: • Work full-time in a professional archival setting for 32 weeks (mid-August 2020 to April 2021). • Process, arrange, and describe five archival collections that focus on women who studied art, architecture, and culture and were dealers or collectors of art. • Produce publicly accessible finding aids for each collection. • Learn about and participate in the Smithsonian's archival management. • Engage in intern and museum programs at the Freer and Sackler and elsewhere in the Smithsonian. • Earn a $20,800 program stipend. APPLICANTS SHOULD BE: • Recent graduates (BA or MA/MLIS) or current MA/MLIS candidates with course-work in archival science, information science, public history, history, art history, Asian studies, or gender studies. • Excited about making archival information accessible to the public. • Interested in art, culture, and the role of women in collecting and scholarship. • Great at communication, problem solving, and multitasking.

Apply online at <https://solaa.si.edu>. Select "Start Your Application" and search for "Freer Gallery of Art and Arthur M. Sackler Gallery Internship Program."
